LAW

ON LAWYERS

(No. 65/2006/QH11)

Pursuant to the 1992 Constitution of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam, which was amended and supplemented under Resolution No. 51/2001/QH10 of December 25, 2001, of the Xth National Assembly, the 10th session;

This Law provides for lawyers and the practice of law.

Chapter I

GENERAL PROVISIONS

Article 1.- Governing scope

This Law provides for the principles, conditions, scope and forms of professional practice by, as well as criteria, rights and obligations of, lawyers, law-practicing organizations and socio-professional organizations of lawyers; the management of law practice and professional practice by foreign law-practicing organizations and foreign lawyers in Vietnam.

Article 2.- Lawyers

Lawyers are persons who fully meet the criteria and conditions for professional practice under the provisions of this Law and provide legal services at the request of individuals, agencies or organizations (hereinafter collectively referred to as clients).

Article 3.- Social functions of lawyers

Legal professional activities aim at contributing to the protection of justice, the economic development and the building of an equitable, democratic and civilized society.

Article 4.- Legal services provided by lawyers

Legal services provided by lawyers include participation in legal proceedings, provision of legal consultancy, representation of clients beyond legal proceedings and other legal services.

Article 5.- Principles for law practice

1. Observance of the Constitution and law.
2. Observance of the rules on legal professional ethics and conducts.
3. Independence, honesty and respect for objective truths.
4. Use of lawful measures for the best protection of clients' legitimate rights and interests.
5. Accountability before law for law-practicing activities.

Article 6.- Principles for management of law practice

The management of law practice shall comply with the principle of combining the state management with the promotion of self-control of socio-professional organizations of lawyers, ensuring the observance of law and the rules of legal professional ethics and conducts.

Article 7.- Socio-professional organizations of lawyers

Socio-professional organizations of lawyers are set up to represent lawyers and protect their legitimate rights and interests, provide professional training and retraining for lawyers, oversee lawyers in their observance of law and rules of professional ethics and conducts, and manage law practice in accordance with this Law.

Socio-professional organizations of lawyers include bar associations in provinces and centrally run cities and the national lawyers' organization.

Article 8.- Encouragement of pro bono legal aid

The State encourages lawyers and law-practicing organizations to provide pro bono legal aid.

Article 9.- Prohibited acts

1. Lawyers are forbidden to commit the following acts:

a/ Providing legal services to clients who have conflicting interests in the same criminal, civil or administrative case or civil affair (hereinafter collectively referred to as cases and affairs) as provided for by law;

b/ Intentionally supplying forged or untruthful documents or material evidences; instigating detainees, the accused, defendants or involved persons to make untruthful declarations or instigating clients to make complaints, denunciations or petitions in contravention of law;

c/ Disclosing information on cases, affairs or clients they have acquired in the process of professional practice, unless it is agreed by clients in writing or otherwise provided for by law.

d/ Harassing or deceiving clients;

e/ Receiving or asking for any money amounts or benefits other than remunerations and charges agreed upon with clients in legal service contracts;

LAW PRACTICE

Section 1. LAW PRACTICE BY LAWYERS

Article 22.- Practicing scope

1. Participating in legal proceedings as defense counsels for detainees, the accused or defendants or as defenders of interests of victims, claimants or respondents in civil cases, or of people with related interests and obligations in criminal cases.
2. Participating in legal proceedings as representatives or defenders of legitimate rights and interests of claimants, respondents, persons with related rights and obligations in civil disputes, marriage and family, business, commercial, labor or administrative cases or affairs as well as in other cases and affairs specified by law.
3. Providing legal consultancy.
4. Representing clients beyond legal proceedings in order to carry out related legal tasks.
5. Providing other legal services in accordance with this Law.

Article 23.- Forms of law practice by lawyers

1. Practicing law in a law-practicing organization.

A lawyer may practice law in a law-practicing organization by establishing or joining in the establishment of the law-practicing organization or working for the law-practicing organization under a contract.

2. Practicing law individually.

3. Lawyers may opt for either of the two professional practice forms mentioned in Clauses 1 and 2 of this Article to practice law.

Article 24.- Acceptance and settlement of clients' cases or affairs

1. Lawyers shall respect clients' selection of lawyers; shall only accept cases and affairs suitable with their capabilities and settle them within the scope of the clients' requests.

2. When accepting cases or affairs, lawyers shall notify their clients of their rights, obligations and professional liabilities in the provision of legal services to clients.

3. Unless it is consented by clients or in force majeure circumstances, lawyers may not transfer cases or affairs they have accepted to others.

Article 25.- Confidentiality

1. Unless it is consented by clients in writing or otherwise provided for by law, lawyers may not disclose information on cases, affairs or clients they know in the course of professional practice.

2. Lawyers may not use information on cases, affairs or clients they know in professional practice for the purpose of infringing upon the State's interests, public interests or legitimate rights and interests of agencies, organizations or individuals.

3. Law-practicing organizations shall ensure that their staff members do not disclose information on their cases, affairs or clients.

Article 26.- Provision of legal services under legal service contracts

1. Lawyers shall provide legal services under legal service contracts, except for those who participate in legal proceedings at the request of legal proceeding-conducting agencies and those who practice law individually under labor contracts with agencies or organizations.

2. Legal service contracts must be made in writing with the following principal contents:

a/ Names and addresses of the client or his/her representative and of the representative of the law-practicing organization or the lawyer practicing law individually;

b/ Service contents and contract performance duration;

c/ Rights and obligations of the involved parties;

- d/ The mode of calculation of remuneration and specific remuneration levels; expenses (if any);
- e/ Liabilities incurred upon a breach of the contract.
- f/ The mode of settlement of disputes.

Article 27.- Lawyers' participation in legal proceedings

1. Lawyers' participation in legal proceedings shall comply with the procedural law and this Law.

2. When fully producing papers in one of the following cases, a lawyer may be granted by the legal proceeding-conducting agency a certificate of defense counsel, certificate of defender of interests of an involved party in a criminal case or certificate of defender of legitimate rights and interests of an involved party in a civil affair or administrative case (hereinafter collectively referred to as lawyer's certificate of participation in legal proceedings):

a/ The lawyer's card, the client's written request for a lawyer and the introduction paper of the law-practicing organization or its branch where the lawyer practices law, in case such lawyer practices law in a law-practicing organization;

b/ The lawyer's card, the client's written request for a lawyer and the introduction paper of the bar association of which the lawyer is a member, in case he/she practices law individually; the lawyer's card and the introduction paper of the agency or organization where the lawyer practices law individually under a labor contract in order to protect legitimate rights and interests of that agency or organization;

c/ The lawyer's card and the document on lawyer nomination by a law-practicing organization or its branch where he/she practices law, for the lawyer who practices law in a law-practicing organization, or the lawyer's card and the document of lawyer nomination by the bar association, for the lawyer who practices law individually, in order to participate in legal proceedings in a criminal case at the request of the legal proceeding-conducting agency.

3. Unless otherwise provided for by law, the time limit for the grant of a lawyer's certificate of participation in legal proceedings is 3 days at most after the full receipt of the papers in one of the cases stipulated in Clause 2 of this Article.

4. Unless it is withdrawn, the lawyer is replaced or is not allowed to participate in legal proceedings as provided for by law, a lawyer's certificate of participation in legal proceedings is valid at all stages of legal proceedings.

5. When they need to contact individuals, agencies or organizations to exercise their rights, perform their obligations or carry out activities related to the defense or protection of interests of their clients, lawyers shall produce lawyer's cards and certificates of participation in legal proceedings.

Article 28.- Legal consultancy activities of lawyers

1. Legal consultancy means that lawyers guide, give opinions to or assist their clients in drafting papers related to the exercise of the latter's rights or the performance of the latter's obligations.

Lawyers may provide legal consultancy in all fields of law.

2. When providing legal consultancy, lawyers shall assist their clients in strictly observing law in order to protect the latter's legitimate rights and interests.

Article 29.- Lawyers' representation beyond legal proceedings

1. Lawyers may represent their clients in settling affairs related to the jobs they have taken within the scope and according to the contents of the legal service contracts or as assigned by agencies or organizations for which they practice law individually under labor contracts.

2. When representing their clients, lawyers have the rights and obligations as provided for by relevant laws.

Article 30.- Other legal services provided by lawyers

1. Other legal services provided by lawyers include assisting clients in performing jobs related to administrative procedures; providing legal advice in case of settlement of complaints; translating, certifying papers and transactions and assisting clients in performing other jobs in accordance with law.

2. When providing other legal services, lawyers have the rights and obligations as provided for by relevant laws.

Article 31.- Pro bono legal aid provided by lawyers

1. When providing pro bono legal aid, lawyers must be devoted to the legal aid-receivers as to their clients in charged cases and affairs.

2. Lawyers shall provide pro bono legal aid according to the charter of the national lawyers' organization.

Section 2. LAW-PRACTICING ORGANIZATIONS

Article 32.- Forms of law-practicing organizations

1. Forms of law-practicing organizations include:

a/ Lawyers' offices;

b/ Law firms.

2. Law-practicing organizations are organized and operate under the provisions of this Law and other relevant provisions of law.

3. A lawyer may only establish, or join in the establishment of, one law-practicing organization in the locality where exists a bar association of which he/she is a member. Where lawyers of different bar associations jointly set up a law firm, they may opt to establish it and register its operations in the locality where exists the bar association of which one of them is a member.

Article 33.- Lawyer's office

1. A lawyer's office set up by a lawyer is organized and operates in the form of a private enterprise.

The lawyer who sets up a lawyer's office is the chief of the office and takes charge of fulfilling all the office's obligations with all his/her property. The chief of an office is the office's representative at law.

2. The name of a lawyer's office is selected by the lawyer according to the provisions of the Enterprise Law but must contain the phrase "van phong luat su" (lawyer's office), must not be identical to, or cause confusion with, the names of registered law-practicing organizations and must not contain words, phrases or symbols against the historical, cultural or ethical traditions as well as fine customs of the nation.

3. A lawyer's office has its own seal and account as provided for by law.

Article 34.- Law firm

1. Law firms include law partnerships and limited liability law firms. Law firms' members must be lawyers.

2. A law partnership must be set up by at least two lawyers. Law partnerships do not have capital-contributing members.

3. Limited liability law firms include limited liability law firms with two or more members and one-member limited liability law firms.

A limited liability law firm with two or more members must be set up by at least two lawyers.

A one-member limited liability law firm is set up by one lawyer who is also the owner of the firm.

4. Members of a law partnership or limited liability law firm with two or more members shall reach agreement to nominate one of them to be the firm's director. The lawyer who owns a one-member limited liability law firm is the firm's director.

5. The names of law partnerships or limited liability law firms with two or more members shall be selected and agreed upon by all members; the names of one-member limited liability law firms shall be selected by the firms' owners in accordance with the Enterprise Law, which, however, must contain the phrase "cong ty luat hop danh" (law partnership) or "cong ty luat huu han" (limited liability law firm), must not be identical to, or cause confusion with, the names of other registered law-practicing organizations, and must not contain words, phrases or symbols against the historical, cultural or ethical traditions as well as fine customs of the nation.

Article 35.- Registration of operations of law-practicing organizations

1. A law-practicing organization shall register its operations at the provincial/municipal Justice Service of the locality where exists the bar association of which the chief of the lawyer's office or the director of the law firm is a member. A law firm jointly set up by lawyers of different bar associations shall register its operations at the provincial/municipal Justice Service of the locality where the firm is based.

2. Law-practicing organizations shall send operation registration dossiers to the provincial/municipal Justice Services. Such a dossier comprises:

a/ A written request for operation registration, made according to a set form;

b/ A draft charter of the law firm;

c/ Copies of the law practice certificate and lawyer's card of the lawyer who sets up the lawyer's office, sets up or joins in setting up the law firm.

d/ Papers evidencing the headquarters of the law-practicing organization.

3. Within 10 working days after receiving a complete dossier, the provincial/municipal Justice Service shall grant an operation registration paper to the law-practicing organization; in case of refusal, it shall give written notice, clearly stating the reasons therefor and the person who is not granted that paper may lodge a complaint in accordance with law.

4. A law-practicing organization may start operation on the date it is granted the operation registration paper.

Within 7 working days after being granted the operation registration paper, the chief of the lawyer's office or the director of the law firm shall give a written notice together with a copy of the operation registration paper to the bar association of which he/she is a member.

Article 36.- Changes in contents of operation registration of law-practicing organizations

1. In case of a change in its name, address of its head-office, branch, transaction office, practice domains, membership, at-law representative or other contents in the operation registration dossier, within 10 working days after deciding on such change, a law-practicing organization shall make registration with the provincial/municipal Justice Service where it has registered its operations. In case of changes in the contents of its operation registration paper, the law-practicing organization shall be re-granted that paper.

Within 10 working days after making changes or receiving the re-granted operation registration paper, the law-practicing organization shall notify the bar association of the changes in writing.

2. When its operation registration paper is lost, torn, burnt or otherwise destroyed, a law-practicing organization shall be re-granted that paper.

Article 37.- Supply of information on contents of operation registration by law-practicing organizations

1. Within 7 working days after granting an operation registration paper or changing contents of operation registration of a law-practicing organization, the provincial/municipal Justice Service shall notify such in writing to the tax office, the statistical office, other competent state agencies and the People's Committee of the district, provincial town or city, the People's Committee of the commune, ward or township and the bar association in the locality where the concerned law-practicing organization is headquartered.

2. Organizations and individuals may request provincial/municipal Justice Services to supply information on operation registration contents of law-practicing organizations, grant copies of operation registration papers, certify changes in operation registration contents or extract those contents of law-practicing organizations and shall pay fees in accordance with law.

3. Provincial/municipal Justice Services shall supply in a timely manner all information on operation registration contents of law-practicing organizations at the request of organizations or individuals specified in Clause 2 of this Article.

Article 38.- Publicity of operation registration contents of law-practicing organizations

1. Within 30 days after being granted an operation registration paper, a law-practicing organization shall publish on a central daily or a daily of the locality where it registers its operations or on a law-specialized newspaper for three consecutive issues the following principal contents:

a/ Its name;

b/ Addresses of its head-office, branches and transaction offices;

c/ Its professional practice domains;

d/ Full names, addresses, serial numbers of law practice certificates of the lawyer who is the chief of the lawyer's office or the director of the law firm and other founding members;

e/ Serial number of the operation registration paper, place of operation registration and date of grant of the operation registration paper.

2. In case of a change in its operation registration contents, a law-practicing organization shall make public that change within the time limit and by the mode prescribed in Clause 1 of this Article.

Article 39.- Rights of a law-practicing organization

1. To provide legal services;
2. To receive remunerations from its clients.
3. To hire Vietnamese lawyers, foreign lawyers and others to work for it.
4. To cooperate with foreign law-practicing organizations.
5. To set up local branches or transaction offices.
6. To locate its practicing establishments overseas.
7. Other rights as provided for by this Law and relevant laws.

Article 40.- Obligations of a law-practicing organization

1. To operate only in the practice domains stated in its operation registration paper.
2. To fulfill its commitments to clients.
3. To nominate its lawyers to participate in legal proceedings according to the assignment of the bar association.
4. To create conditions for its lawyers to provide pro bono legal aid.
5. To pay compensation for damage caused by its lawyers to its clients in legal consultancy provision, in representation beyond legal proceedings or in the provision of other legal services.
6. To purchase professional liability insurance for its lawyers in accordance with the insurance business law.
7. To observe the labor, tax, financial and statistical laws.
8. To abide by the competent state agencies' requests for reporting, inspection or examination.
9. Other obligations as provided for by this Law and relevant laws.

Article 41.- Branches of law-practicing organizations

1. Branches of a law-practicing organization may be set up within or outside the province or centrally run city where that organization registers its operation. Branches of a law-practicing organization are its dependent units and operate under its authorization in the domains specified in its operation registration paper. The law-practicing organization shall take responsibility for operations of its branches. It shall nominate a lawyer to be the chief of each branch. The chief of a branch and members of the law-practicing organization working at that branch may also be lawyers of a bar association in the locality where the law-practicing organization registers its operations or where it locates its branch.

2. A branch of a law-practicing organization shall register its operations at provincial/municipal Justice Service of the locality where it is based. The law-practicing organization shall file a dossier for registration of operations of its branch with the provincial/municipal Justice Service. Within 7 working days after receiving a complete dossier, the provincial/municipal Justice Service shall grant an operation registration paper to the concerned branch; in case of refusal, it shall notify such in writing, clearly stating the reasons therefor. The person who is not granted an operation registration paper may lodge a complaint in accordance with law.

A branch may operate from the date it is granted an operation registration paper. Within 7 working days after receiving the operation registration paper for its branch, the law-practicing organization shall send written notices together with copies of that paper to the provincial/municipal Justice Service, the bar association of the locality where it registers its operations and the bar association of the locality where its branch is based.

Upon changes in operation registration contents of its branch, within 10 working days after deciding on those changes, the law-practicing organization shall notify those changes in writing to the provincial/municipal Justice Service which has granted the operation registration paper to its branch and to the bar association of the locality where its branch is based.

3. A branch's operation registration dossier comprises:

a/ A written request for registration of the branch's operations;

b/ A copy of the operation registration paper of the law-practicing organization which sets up the branch;

c/ A decision on the establishment of the branch;

d/ Copies of the law practice certificate and the lawyer's card of the chief of the branch;

e/ Papers evidencing the branch's office.

Article 42.- Transaction offices of law-practicing organizations

The transaction office of a law-practicing organization may be set up within a province or centrally-run city where that organization registers its operations. The transaction office is the place to receive cases, affairs and requests of clients. It may not provide legal services.

Within 5 working days after setting up a transaction office, a law-practicing organization shall notify in writing the transaction office's address to the provincial/municipal Justice Service of the locality where it registers its operations.

The provincial/municipal Justice Service shall write the address of the transaction office of the law-practicing organization in its operation registration certificate.

Article 43.- Opening of law-practicing establishments overseas

1. Law-practicing organizations may open law-practicing establishments overseas.
2. Within 10 working days after permitted by the foreign competent authority to open its law-practicing establishment overseas, a law-practicing organization shall notify such in writing to the provincial/municipal Justice Service, the tax office and the bar association of the locality where it registers its operations.
3. When terminating operations of its overseas law-practicing establishment, within 7 working days after the termination, the law-practicing organization shall notify such in writing to the provincial/municipal Justice Service, the tax office and the bar association of the locality where it registers its operations.

Article 44.- Nomination of lawyers to provide legal services in foreign countries

Law-practicing organizations may nominate lawyers to provide legal services in foreign countries at the request of their clients.

Lawyers who provide legal services in foreign countries shall observe the provisions of this Law and relevant laws.

Article 45.- Merger and consolidation of law firms

Law firms of the same type may be merged or consolidated. The merger and consolidation of law firms shall comply with the Enterprise Law.

Article 46.- Cessation of operations of law-practicing organizations

1. Law-practicing organizations may cease their operations but must, at least 10 working days before the cessation or resumption of their operations, send reports thereon to provincial/municipal Justice Services, tax offices, statistical offices and bar associations of the localities where they register their operations and where their branches are located. The cessation duration must not exceed two years.

Chapter VIII

HANDLING OF VIOLATIONS, SETTLEMENT OF DISPUTES

Section 1. DISCIPLINE OF LAWYERS, SETTLEMENT OF DISPUTES

Article 85.- Discipline of lawyers

1. Lawyers who violate the provisions of this Law, charters, rules of professional ethics and conducts and other regulations of socio-professional organizations of lawyers shall, depending on the nature and severity of their violations, be subject to one of the following disciplinary forms:

a/ Reprimand;

b/ Caution;

c/ Suspension of the membership of a bar association for between 6 and 24 months;

d/ Deletion of their names from the list of a bar association.

2. The discipline of lawyers shall be considered and decided by the managing boards of bar associations at the request of their commendation and disciplinary councils.

3. When a lawyer is disciplined in the form of having his/her name deleted from the list of lawyers of a bar association, the bar association shall notify such in writing to the provincial/municipal Justice Service and request the Justice Ministry to withdraw his/her law-practice certificate, and request the national lawyers' organization to withdraw his/her lawyer's card.

Article 86.- Complaint about disciplinary decisions against lawyers

1. A lawyer is entitled to complain about a disciplinary decision against him/her which is issued by the managing board of a bar association.

The executive board of the national lawyers' organization is competent to settle complaints against disciplinary decisions of the managing boards of bar associations.

2. When disagreeing with a complaint-settling decision of the executive board of the national lawyers' organization with regard to the disciplinary form stipulated at Point c or d, Clause 1, Article 85 of this Law, a lawyer may further lodge a complaint with the Justice Ministry. The time limit for the Justice Minister to settle a complaint is 30 days after the receipt of that complaint.

Article 87.- Complaint about decisions or acts of the managing boards of bar associations or bodies of the national lawyers' organization

1. If having grounds to believe that decisions or acts of the managing boards of bar associations infringe upon their legitimate rights or interests, individuals and organizations may complain about those decisions or acts.

The executive board of the national lawyers' organization is competent to settle complaints about decisions and acts of the managing boards of bar associations.

2. When disagreeing with a complaint-settling decision of the executive board of the national lawyers' organization regarding a bar association's failure to request the Justice Ministry to grant a law-practice certificate or refuse an application for participation in a bar association, an individual may lodge a complaint with the Justice Minister. The time limit for the Justice Minister to settle a complaint is 30 days after the receipt of that complaint.

3. If having grounds to believe that decisions or acts of bodies of the national lawyers' organization infringe upon their legitimate rights or interests, individuals and organizations may complain about those decisions or acts.

The executive board of the national lawyers' organization is competent to settle complaints about decisions or acts of the organization's bodies.

Article 88.- Settlement of disputes

When disputes between clients, lawyers and law-practicing organizations arise in relation to law-practice activities, the managing boards of bar associations shall settle those disputes.

Section 2. HANDLING OF VIOLATIONS OF LAWYERS AND LAW-PRACTICING ORGANIZATIONS

Article 89.- Handling of violations of lawyers

Lawyers who violate the provisions of this Law shall, apart from being disciplined, be administratively handled or examined for penal liability, depending on the nature and severity of their violations; if causing damage, they shall pay compensation in accordance with law.

Article 90.- Handling of violations of Vietnamese law-practicing organizations, branches of foreign law-practicing organizations and Vietnam-based foreign law firms

Vietnamese law-practicing organizations, branches of foreign law-practicing organizations and Vietnam-based foreign law firms which violate the provisions of this Law shall, depending on the nature and severity of their violations, be administratively handled according to the law on handling of administrative violations; if causing damage, they shall pay compensation in accordance with law.

Article 91.- Handling of acts of infringing upon legitimate rights and interests of lawyers and law-practicing organizations

Persons holding positions or powers who commit acts of infringing upon legitimate rights and interests of lawyers or law-practicing organizations or obstructing lawyers or law-practicing organizations from exercising their rights and/or performing their duties shall, depending on the nature and severity of their violations, be disciplined or examined for penal liability in accordance with law.

Article 92.- Handling of violations of individuals and organizations that illegally practice law

1. Individuals who are unqualified but still practice law in any form shall be forced to stop their violation acts, be fined according to the law on handling of administrative violations or examined for penal liability; if causing damage, they shall pay compensation in accordance with law.

2. Organizations which practice law in any form though failing to satisfy the relevant conditions shall be forced to stop their violations and be handled in accordance with the law on handling of administrative violations; if causing damage, they shall pay compensation in accordance with law.
